PRINTING FLUENTLY WE WRITE TO READ SERIES FROM PETERSON DIRECTED HANDWRITING

Thank you for choosing this new approach to practice from Peterson Directed Handwriting. You can print these pages as needed from Acrobat Reader or PDF By Hand from your computer. If you have a color printer available, you can produce multiple copies of the chosen worksheet in color. If your printer is not color capable, the images will print in grayscale.

Please remember that our most important goal is fluency. We need to get the students moving to create a demand for better position and to provide regular opportunity to improve control of the fluent kind of movement children need when using handwriting as a tool.

These pages are designed to provide step-by-step, gross-motor readiness for cursive handwriting. The first step is to learn how to hold the paper and writing arm in position for control of lateral movements needed for joining letters as words are formed. We use print letterforms to begin position training so that the child won't have to learn new movement sequences at the same time we are learning how to use good writing position for the paper and writing arm. When print letters slant forward it shows that good position skills are understood and applied. Slant print is not a "new" alphabet. We are simply learning to make print letters fluently by using "cursive position" and "cursive muscles." Mastery of the position skills first, will make it much easier for the child to learn the movement sequences for cursive letters.

Our Position Guide Helps

Name

The page contains ten sets of handwriting practice lines. Each set consists of three horizontal lines: a solid green top line, a dashed green middle line, and a solid red bottom line. These lines are spaced evenly down the page to provide a guide for letter height and placement.

Hold Your Pencil Softly

*One finger on top,
An inch away from the point.
Don't Pinch,
Don't Squeeze,
Don't press down hard.*

*Pointer on the top,
Thumb on the side.
Keep the other fingers,
Hanging down beside.*

Measure And Track Your Fluency Score

How many lowercase letters can you print in one minute? Only legible letters count. Record your letters-per-minute score in the box and save your paper for comparison with later scores as the year progresses.

Master Writing Position And Rhythmic Movement

Learn to hold your paper in writing position and move smoothly across the page. Chant the action words aloud as you write the target letter. Let your arm move your pencil with the beat of your voice. Write & Say in order straight across the page.

Practice "NO-LIFT" to make all of these letters smoothly.

Curves that slant to the left may need more practice. Letters f, c, s and o all start the same way. But, notice the lowercase "e." We will start with the slide so that we don't have to lift between the strokes. Pause before the "Hook Around" to maintain control for a nice loop. Fingertrace & Say. Then Write & Say. Write letters in pairs to practice spacing.

Measure your fluency score for lowercase slant print letters. Good position allows forward slant to happen. That should mean better fluency. Has your fluency score improved?
